
Tomtom Truck Android torrent You might think that the most important map in your vehicle is one that shows where you are, but nothing could be more incorrect. Your truck's actual location is largely irrelevant. Far more vital is the map of the roads ahead of you, and no one or nothing can provide this information better than TomTom. That's why we're bringing this article to you today. We're here to tell you TomTom is now offering its map data to truckers for free. The deal is with Verizon Wireless, which can already distribute phone calls and satellite TV, including ATSC-high definition (HD) content. On the latest TomTom Maps app for Android tablets, iOS devices, and Windows 8 PCs, truckers can now install their own maps that will look like the standard Google Maps application, but with extra navigation features that are very handy when you're on the road. A lot of these features are seamless upgrades from what your GPS device already does. The most visible of these upgrades is the ability to turn your TomTom app into a full-fledged navigation system using GPS satellites. That means the maps will be completely offline, giving you access to all of the features you would normally use when online. This includes traffic updates, lane guidance, and a more detailed view of upcoming turns on your route. If you have a working internet connection on your tablet or smartphone, this app will also use it to look up more information about the current road conditions and any construction going on ahead of time.
